

The Halifax 2011 Games Host Society is asking What will you bring? to the 2011 Games.

Heart? Sweat? Commitment? The new tagline applies to athletes, fans, and volunteers, and is highlighted within the Games new website canadagames2011.ca, launched in February.

The Host Society unveiled its venue plan, and kicked off the countdown to the Games with a “Two Year Countdown” celebration. The Games sport venues opened their doors to the community, offering people the chance to get active while enjoying the facilities that will host Canada's future champions. Close to 2000 people of all ages and athletic abilities participated in events celebrating the countdown to the 2011 Canada Games. Photos from some of the events, as well as a list of 2011 venues, can be viewed at canadagames2011.ca.

Volunteers & Staff

Ten new staff have joined the Host Society since January, in roles from sport and venues, to language services and marketing.

Over 400 names have been registered into the planning volunteer database and over 125 volunteers are currently engaged in various committees for the Host Society.

Job and volunteer postings will be made available at www.careerbeacon.com/canadagames2011

Upcoming

Over the coming months, the Host Society is getting geared up to lay out a legacy plan framework, start planning a torch relay route, create the Games mascot, and start selling 2011 merchandise.
